FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.

Another meeting of the Select Committee on an International Exhibition was held this evening, Henry Coster in the chair, and Hallett Kilbourn as Secretary. Admiral DaHgren, W. W. Corcoran and others were present. A draft of a charter from Congress was submitted and adopted. The inspectorship with the number of 75, to be from all sections in the country.

One section provides that the excess of the profits above six per cent. per annum on the capital stock shall be devoted to some national object to be approved by the President of the United States. The draft also contains a section authorizing the corporate authorities of the District of Columbia to appropriate a million dollars to and the enterprise. A draft of a bill was also submitted and adopted providing for the grant of a public reservation for the building; for postal and Custom House facilities; for the co-operation of Foreign Ministers and Consuls; for the appointment of a Military Guard and Police and for the transportation of goods for exhibit, in Government vessels from ports to Washington.

Mayor Bowen was present and pledged a most liberal co-operation in the enterprise on the part of the authorities of Washington. The sentiment of the citizens of the National Capital, including the highest Government officials, is that of confidence in the success of the enterprise. Gen. O. O. Howard was to-night appointed chairman of the Executive Committee, and Henry D. Cooke, Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Tennessee Politics.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.

Special to N. Y. Times.

Gov. Senter's action in withholding his message provokes much comment and suspicion. His private friends here who have loaned largely in Tennessee bonds in Wall street, have been in his room in consultation for some days, and have acted accordingly. He opposes repudiation vigorously, and urges the payment of the interest and bonds.

The Memphis Avalanche charges boldly that New York bankers are in Nashville backing Johnson for Senator, heavily with money. It promises names and facts very soon.

A special to the Press and Herald says Johnson was on floor of the House to-day at work. Bills were introduced to repeal the railroad receivers' law, and compelling all railroads to pay up their interest. The bill repealing the school law and militia bill were referred.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.

Special to N. Y. Tribune.

The House to-day tabled a bill repealing all acts of the two preceding legislatures, but passed to a first reading several bills for repealing certain laws distasteful to the rebels. The violent and vindictive spirit mentioned yesterday, is active to-day. The contest for U. S. Senator is settling down to a trial of pluck, creating the feeling to-night that Johnson is the likeliest to win. The Ex-President means nothing but guerilla warfare. Bleeding displaces law if the thing is decided in contest he is certain of Election. Both candidates were very busy among the members during the forenoon session.

JOHN H. LYNDE, - - PROPRIETOR.

MONDAY, OCT. 11, 1869.

Farmers' Convention.

A change was last winter made in the law relative to the Board of Agriculture by which it is provided that there shall be two sessions of four days each per annum instead of one session as before. These sessions are calculated to be more properly speaking farmer's conventions, as all interested will be invited to attend and to a certain extent participate. By means of those conventions great good may be done in the cause of agriculture as well by the exchange of views of scientific men as by the display of practical results of the labors of farmers in general.

It was provided in the law referred to that one of these sessions of the Board shall be subject to the choice of the members from time to time, and of course its location will depend upon the facilities offered by competing towns desiring to obtain it. The other session, it is provided, shall be held at or as near as possible to the Agricultural College that its students may have a good opportunity to participate in and reap the benefits of its councils. In accordance with this idea the Secretary of the Board has given notice that the first session under this arrangement will be held in this city on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 20th 21st and 22d. Our City Hall has been tendered them for that purpose, and the Penobscot Agricultural and the Bangor Horticultural Societies have taken great interest in the matter and will do all in their power to make the session an interesting and profitable one to all who may attend. We have no doubt our citizens will co-operate so far as possible and necessary to make the affair pleasant to all who may visit us from abroad. We are assured that many will attend the sessions from a distance, if such arrangements are made as to hold out proper inducements.

The Maine Farmer says: "The details of the programme of exercises are not yet fully decided upon, but it is now expected that Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to addresses and lectures by gentlemen from abroad, the reading of papers by members of the Board, to be followed by discussions in which the farmers of the State are invited to be present; and that Friday will be occupied by an exhibition of potatoes and by discussions on matters connected therewith. It is earnestly desired that farmers attending the convention will bring, and the others interested, will send specimens of any new, rare or desirable varieties."

The programme will be published in a few days, and will no doubt be similar to that of last winter at Augusta, where instructive lectures and addresses given by such men as Dr. Geo. B. Loring, Gov. Simon Brown, Dr. Henry Boynton, Hon. Henry F. French from other States, together with our own, Hon. T. S. Lang, Profs. Brackett, Goodale, and others—and very useful and practical discussions followed each lecture by members of the Board and those outside by invitation. It is some expected that Prof Agassiz will favor the Board with a lecture.

We trust that the arrangements will be such as to insure a large attendance that much benefit may be derived from the session.

Horatio Seymour in a late interview said that he was in favor of the domination of Judge Chase by the New York Convention, that his own nomination surprised and bewildered him, "as the coolest of us are apt to be bewildered at times," and that he should have declined it if a sensonable opportunity had been offered." What Mr. Seymour calls a "seasonable opportunity" we do not know. He was President of the convention that nominated him, and we presume had a "seasonable" opportunity to accept. The fact is, Mr. Seymour has ever since his defeat felt sorely the annoyance of the little game by which he was foisted upon the convention, and seeks every occasion to soften if possible the ignominy that attaches to it. When shall we have done with this "declination" of Seymour?

Powerful enough to punish its recreant members with impunity, the Republican party is thus made pure enough to provoke little just criticism of its leaders. It promptly casts out from its fold the defaulters who attempt to fasten themselves upon the public confidence and administer its offices. It therefore stands unimpeachable and strong in the people's esteem.

In marked contrast to this course is the Democratic party. Wherever it is in power, corruption and extravagance creep in and sap the resources of the State. New York is a Democratic State and the city is so intensely Democratic that its moral tolerances is a by-word with the people. Its officials are so notoriously dishonest that the newspapers freely comment upon them and are never disturbed with prosecutions for libel. Even the Democratic papers make jests of them, and sometimes directly charge home upon the "corruptionists of the Ring." The judiciary there is not free from the party taint. So it is wherever the Democracy get power, and so it will ever be so long as the present leaders guide it, for they neither have the power nor care to reform.

Instances are numerous of this difference in the two parties. But one quite notable has just come to light. A few days since some Democratic papers of Wisconsin charged that certain monies belonging to the State treasury from an insurance fund had been embezzled by one of the officers in charge. It transpired that the Republican candidate for Secretary of State was referred to, and that he had received certain monies, but not as is believed for any fraudulent purpose. At any rate the amount was promptly made good. But even this did not satisfy the Republican State Committee; they forced him to take himself out of the way to give room for a new candidate, who is unobjectionable. Thus promptly he, (like all to whom even attach just suspicions of corruption,) is excommunicated from our party.

Is it any wonder, that a party prospers when it is so prompt to rebuke dishonesty even in its favored members? Is it any wonder the Democratic party is so repeatedly rejected when it protects its members in the most nefariously corrupt practices?

The latest London files bring a piece of news which might have been given to American readers a fortnight ago without any serious evil consequences to any one. It seems that a sudden fall took place in the shares of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company, and the movement excited much curiosity, as the price had been very firm for some time. Not long afterwards this communication was conspicuously posted: "Information has been received this morning that the cable of 1866 has parted about seventy miles from Heart's Content, Newfoundland. The cable of 1865 remains in perfect condition. No interruption in the traffic has occurred." An investigation will be had into the cause of the withholding of this important news until the "ring" had an opportunity to take advantage of the early information. But it is singular that it was not thought worth while to telegraph the news to America at all.

The Winterport Railroad Loan Bill.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

Allow me a short space to give one of the principle reasons why I feel constrained to vote against the acceptance of the Winterport Loan Bill. In order to do this I must go back a little, and refer to your paper of the 13th and 22d ult., and, also, to the Loan Bill. In your issue of the 13th, an advocate of the bill (R. R.") assumes that "the Winterport road will" cost $30,000 per mile,—$300,000—say $400,000. In all the discussions which I have read in your papers this is the only estimate of the cost of the road I have noticed. As it was made by a friend of the road, I presume that it is not excessive. I also infer from the tenor of the article that the cost of the rolling stock is not included in the estimate. If not, we must add at least $75,000 for the equipment of the road, making $475,000. Now keeping this in mind, as to the financial need of the road, examine the report of the Committee of the City Council, printed in the Daily Whig of September 22d, and see what was the actual financial condition of the Company at that time. There had been subscribed in all, according to the statements of the President of the road, made to the Committee, the sum of $51,200. This sum will build, at the estimated cost, a very small fraction less than one and two-thirds miles of the road.

That I may not do the road injustice, I will add that the Committee say the President informs them that Winterport voted to loan the credit of the town for $80,000. I have examined the private acts of the State and cannot find any act authorizing such a vote, and in all the discussions I have heard or read on the bill, I have not heard a word said about a Winterport loan bill, nor read a word of other than in the report of the Committee. I think, therefore, it may be fairly assumed there is no such bill. If not, this vote goes for nothing. It is a mere expression of good will towards the road. I dwell on this a little, because, I presume, many of your readers think it a legal vote.

The Committee also say that "the (the President) also informs us that they expect to obtain $20,000 more of subscription to the stock before Oct. 11th." Assuming again, that this is done they will have a stock subscription of $76,200, which, if it is all paid, will build a little less than 2½ miles of the road.

The Committee estimated that the Company would be entitled to receive of the city $195,000 in bonds. These bonds would not, the Company more than $178,800. Add to this sum, the $76,200 stock subscription, only two-thirds of which, so far as I know, are yet obtained, and the Company will only have $250,000 to build a road that will cost, including the rolling stock at least $775,000, leaving a deficit of $225,000. Now, who is to raise this $225,000. I think the city of Bangor must raise it, or lose what it has invested in the road.

By looking at the loan bill, we see that the Company will be entitled to receive $75,000 when they shall have completed five miles of its road, and so on, for every five miles. If the Company should build five miles and stop, the city must put the road through or lose $75,000, or should they make out to complete 10 miles, the city must then complete the rest of the road or lose $160,000. As the city will then have more interest in the road than any person, it is inevitable that it must complete the road, or lose what it has done.

I know that the President of this Company is an honest man, none more so—but he is not the loan bill, and the rights of the city must be secured and protected by the bill, or not at all. There can be no protection outside of the bill.

As briefly as I could I have given you my principle reason why I shall vote against this bill. I have some other reasons, but this is sufficient.

I think it better for the company that the aid of the city should be withheld till funds enough were subscribed to complete the road. A Company with ample funds can build a road twenty-five per cent. cheaper than with crippled means.

I desire to say, further, that I am in favor of this road—that if I thought the rights of the city were suitably protected by this bill, I should vote for it, cheerfully. But as the bill is I think its acceptance would be disastrous to the city, and, by encouraging the Company to commence the road with inadequate means, would retard rather than hasten the construction of the road.

Oct 9th. A. G. W.

P. S. Since writing the above, I am informed that the Directors of the road, have had a meeting and voted to consent to have the bill so amended, that no bonds shall be called for, until the whole road is completed. If it be so, it is a concession that my objections to the bill are well taken.

But if the bill be amended, it must be again submitted to a vote of the city, and I would respectfully ask the Directors what they will gain in time, if the bill is to be amended and again submitted. In my opinion, there is no safety in accepting the bill before it is perfected, and amended. Careful men do not, often, sign their names on blank paper for corporations to fill up. Let us see the bill as the Directors would have it before it is accepted. Suppose they do amended it, as suggested, the Company run no risk for the city will then accept it. But suppose they do not amend it, the city runs an imminent risk of losing from $75,000 to $105,000—and at the same time delay the construction of the road. I will not insult the good sense of the voters of Bangor by attempting to point out to them the danger of accepting the bill, on the assurance that it shall, afterwards, be amended.

In the absence of all legitimate argument, or even of decent complaint, and being too cowardly to make direct charges, the Democratic papers have adopted the plan of persistently prosecuting every member of the present administration with vile and libellous insinuations. President Grant in particular, being far out of reach of suspicion, is a constant mark for their targets. Referring to this, the Boston Advertiser well answers the Democratic slanderers, when it says any man who has no scruples about the truth may bring any charge against the purest and best of public officers, with the certainty that he will find people to hear and believe. If the accused keeps silent it is in their view a confession of guilt; if he denies the charge they refuse to believe him. If he notices the accusation he is lacking in dignity; if he pays no attention to the dares not speak. Against such calumniators no man's reputation is safe.

SOMETHING OF A WAVE. The Portsmouth (N. H.) Chronicle says that two residents of Newcastle report that they were on the beach at 10 o'clock Monday night, and that there was but one tidal wave, which was 18 feet high. As they saw it coming they had time to run, the water coming over and following them, but it fell among rocks, in which he clung, the wave going over him. It ran 125 feet above high water mark, and in three minutes after there was no trace of it.

Winterport Railroad — Important Correspondence.

WINTERPORT, Oct. 8, 1869.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

The Directors of the Winterport Railroad Corporation having been informed that doubts are entertained by citizens of Bangor of the propriety of certain provisions in the charter of the road, and the security afforded the city by the terms of the Loan Bill, have taken the matter into consideration at a legal meeting, and while regarding the objections as purely technical, have, with an earnest desire, so far as we are concerned, to remove all grounds of complaint and objection, voted to consent to, and endeavor to procure any amendments to the charter and loan bill at the next session of the Legislature which shall be satisfactory to the City Government of Bangor. It was voted particularly that the charter of the road should be so amended, that the northern terminus should be fixed, beyond cavil, in the city of Bangor, and the Loan Bill so amended that the provision granting a loan of $75,000 for each and every five miles of road completed should be made to provide that no part of the Loan should or could, be called for or granted until the whole line of road from Bangor to Winterport should be built and in running order; and not to exceed $300,000 in all.

We submit the following reply of Messrs. Cushing and Voss to whom we communicated our wishes.

Respectfully,

N. H. HUBBARD,
President of the W. R. R. Co.
J. LORD, Clerk.

WINTERPORT, Oct. 9, 1869.

To the President and Directors of the Winterport Railroad Corporation—

Gentlemen—We acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 8th inst. inclosing a certified copy of your vote requesting us, in our official capacity, to procure the passage of such an act amendatory of the charter of the Winterport Railroad; and the Bangor Loan Bill, as shall protect, beyond cavil, the interests and security of the city, and be satisfactory to the City Government of Bangor.

In reply we assure you we accede to your wishes with pleasure, and shall esteem our privilege and duty to use all honorable means, and our best efforts to effect such legislation as is indicated by you to please the Legislature, and the citizens of Bangor and the Winterport Railroad; such legislation as is deemed necessary by the City Government and shall receive the support of its Representatives, to perfect the charter of the road and Loan Bill, will receive our hearty assent and cordial support.

Very truly yours,

H. CUSHING,
Senator elect for Waldo.
T. W. VOSE,
Representative elect for Winterport.

The Lewiston Journal says that Governor Chamberlain does not intend to have whole to be appointed to the short term in the United States Senate, but being asked Thursday who was to be the man, replied: "I shall nominate a gentleman to the position, and the nomination will be announced within two weeks."

A Democratic paper in Blair county Pennsylvania, declares that Asa Packer has contributed $75,000 to promote his own election as Governor, but that $10,000 have been honestly applied to that purpose, and adds that unless Judge Packer changes his advisers and spends his money more wisely, the 12th of October will tell a tale of disaster and ruin to the Democracy.

The late Gen. Pierce married, in 1834, Miss Jane, daughter of Dr. Appleton of Brunswick, Maine. He had but two children, Frank, who died in 1852 at the age of 4 years, and Benjamin, who was killed in a railroad accident at Andover, Mass., just after the election of Gen. Pierce to the Presidency. Mrs. Pierce died a few years ago.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8, 1869.

The following circular has been issued by Secretary Boutwell—

It appears that there exists a want of uniformity in practice at the several ports in affixing on custom house entries the stamps requisite under the internal revenue laws. The following instructions are therefore hereby issued for the guidance of Collectors and other officers of Customs:

Whenever entries are made for warehousing or warehousing and withdrawal combined, according to the following forms of revised warehouse regulations of October 30, 1868 viz: form 24—rewarehouse and withdrawal entry for consumption; form 25—rewarehouse entry for immediate exportation; form 31—entry for warehousing and immediate transportation in the United States; form 36—warehouse and exportation duty; form 46—entry for immediate transportation and exportation in bond; Canada, the stamps affixed thereto must be of sufficient amount to cover the separate entries of which they are composed. The requisite stamps are of the denomination of 25 cents to $5 for the warehouse entry, according to the value, of the merchandise, and fifty cents for the withdrawal entry, making from 75 cents to $1,50 in all. To all official papers the stamps required by law and the official seal of office required must be affixed at the time of completion."

PORTLAND. The Portland Press in an article on the commercial prospect of that city, premises its views by stating—

The growth of Portland in the past has not been rapid. In 1840 our population was to round numbers 16,000. In 1860 it was 30,000. In twenty-five years, therefore, it had doubled, which is about the rate of increase in the country at large. This is much greater than the increase of the State within the same period, which was only about 33 per cent. Our population at the present time is estimated at not less than 32,500. If within the next twenty-five years it shall increase no faster than from 1840 to 1865 it would be in 1894 only 65,000. This increase is hardly equal to the average increase of those American cities that pretend to flourish.

The Press says that it is evident that if Portland is to become a great commercial center, new conditions must be introduced to accelerate the growth of population, which has hitherto been limited by surrounding circumstances. The Press says a fine harbor cannot make a city. Commerce may be facilitated but not created by it. The Press says:

"As it is impossible at present to build up an extensive commerce with the products of Maine, it is with instinctive wisdom that Portland stretches out her arms to the vast granaries of the West, the North West and British Provinces. It is to these localities that Portland must look in the immediate future. A large part of the Agricultural produce of the lake region ought to find its way to foreign countries through this port and will do so if proper facilities for transportation are provided. The fact that the St. Lawrence is frozen a part of the year will give Portland an advantage over that route which ought to be developed.

The great grain growing regions of the North west are as yet but partially developed. To provide a profitable outlet for their produce would not only give them a great impetus but would enrich the channels through which they passed. The city of Portland is proof positive of the truth of this statement. Immediately after the trade and her population increased between 1850 and 1860 from 21,000 to 31,000. This shows the splendid place which is within the reach of Portland, if she can by the well-devised railway system, collect the lake trade in this direction.

It is said that an agent of the Rothschilds has arrived in this country, prepared to make propositions to our Government to take any amount of the national debt at four per cent.

Consumption.

DR. SOUESON'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption.

DR. SOUESON'S SHAWANDO TONIC for the cure of Dyspepsia and all the Debilitated Conditions of the Stomach.

DR. SHESCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS for Diseases of the Liver, or as a mild Purgative.

All of these three medicines are often required in curing Consumption, though the Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many desperate cases. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills assist in regulating the Stomach and Liver, and help the Pulmonic Syrup to digest and search through the blood vessels, by which means a cure is soon effected.

These medicines are conscientiously offered to the public as the only safe, certain and reliable remedies for Pulmonary Consumption, and for all those morbid conditions of the body which lead to that fatal disease, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are often forerunners of Consumption, and when they manifest themselves they require the most prompt attention.

The Pulmonic Syrup is a medicine which has had a long probation before the public. Its value has been proved by the thousands of cures it has made through a period of more than thirty-five years in all of which time its reputation has constantly increased, and to the most certain conclusion can no longer doubt that it is a remedy which may be used with confidence in all cases which admit of its use.

If the patient will perseveringly follow the directions which accompany each bottle, he will certainly be cured, if his lungs are not too much wasted to make cure possible, even when friends and physicians have despaired, the use of this medicine has saved the life of the patient, and restored him to perfect health.

Dr. Schenck, himself was cured in precisely such circumstances, and many others have been equally fortunate by judiciously making a timely use of Dr. Schenck's remedies.

Dr. Schenck does not say that all cases of Pulmonary Consumption are within the reach of medicine, but he emphatically asserts, that often when patients have the most alarming symptoms, such as a bloody cough, creeping chills, night sweats and general debility, even to such a degree that they are obliged to lie in bed, and which they are unwilling to the physician, they may still be cured. No matter how bad a cough or how much the lungs are broken down and disorganized, if there is any hectic fever remaining, there is hope. Take the medicine regularly, and observe the directions with it, and you will be cured.

Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is to be taken to ripen the matter and cause it to be coughed up; the Sea We

TABLE NEWS.

The Journal (official) has the following:

Intelligence was received this morning by the Consul of the United States at Havana, that a terrible riot broke out among the troops employed by the Conde de Reus, in the Department of Puerto Principe, on the 7th inst. The troops refused to march against the insurgents, and were fired upon by the officers. The troops returned the fire, and a general battle ensued, in which the Conde de Reus was killed, and several large buildings in the city of Puerto Principe were destroyed by fire. The Consul says that a general panic among the Europeans and the entire population was the result of the riot.

Miscellany.

The following poem was written by an Irish officer in the English service, while on duty in a city in East India, in which the plague was doing its terrible work. The inhabitants, particularly the foreign residents, were dying every day by hundreds, when twenty officers of the English army, without the shadow of a hope of ever seeing their country or friends, formed a club and bought to drown their sorrows in the wine cup, and by jest and song divert their thoughts from the terrible and irrevocable fate which each one knew awaited him. The author of this poem died almost before the echoes of "Hurrah for the next that dies!" had ceased to reverberate, and in less than a week every member of the club had crossed the sable shore.

We meet 'neath the sounding rafter,
And the walls around are bare;
As they echo our peals of laughter,
It seems that the dead are there.

But stand to your glasses steady—
We drink to comrades' eyes;
Quaff a cup to the dead already,
And hurrah for the next that dies!

Not a sigh for the lot that darkens,
Not a tear for the friend that sank—
We'll not think the wine-cup's sparkles,
Are mute as the wine we drink.

So stand to your glasses steady,
'Tis this that the respite buys;
Accept to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

There was when we frowned on others;
We thought we were wise then, too;
Faith! let them think of their mothers!
Who expect to see them again!

No! stand to your glasses steady—
The thoughtless here are the wise;
A sigh to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

There's many a hand that's shaking,
There's many a heart that's sunk—
But soon, though our hearts are breaking,
They'll burn with the wine we've drunk.

So stand to your glasses steady,
'Tis hers the revivalries!
A curse on the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

There's a mist on the glass obscuring—
'Tis the hurricane's fiery breath;
And thus dies the warmth of cooling—
Turns to ice in the grasp of death.

But stand to your glasses steady—
For a moment the vapor flies!
Around on the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Who drinks to the dust returning?
Who shrinks from the sable shore,
Where the high and haughty yearnings
Of the soul shall sting no more?

No! stand to your glasses steady!
This world is a world of lies!
A curse on the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Cut off from the land that loves us,
Stranded by the land we find—
Where the brightest have gone before us,
And the dullest remains behind!

So stand to your glasses steady,
'Tis all we have to prize!
A sigh for the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

BANGOR ME.

THE CELEBRATION OF ITS CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY.

Correspondence of the Providence Journal.

BANGOR, October 1.

In the Atlantic Monthly for June, Mr. Whittier has given to his charming verse the tale of a Christian knight who, seeking the wonderous and mythical city of Norumbega, died in the attempt, with only the vision of the heavenly city to greet mortal with its fields. It was this dream of the city of Norumbega which drew on the French explorers, and at last led Samuel Champlain, in 1605, up the Penobscot to this spot. Here he gave up the search with the conclusion that the city had never been and was not to be found. But if the gallant Frenchman could have postponed his voyage till yesterday, he would have seen not only,

"The domes and spires
Of Norumbega's towns,"

but would have seen a beautiful city, gay and musical over its hundredth birthday, for it wisely disowns all mythical and legendary origins, and instead of making Champlain its patron saint, it prefers to take plain Jacob Buswell, hunter, boat-builder and cooper, who coming from Salisbury, at the mouth of the Merrimack, with his nine sons, set up his habitation, such as it was, in the woods by the side of the Penobscot a century ago. That was the humble beginning of the fair and stately aloe which blooms in its centurial bravery to-day. This is the ancient bloom of Norumbega come more than true.

The old French voyager could have hardly brought with him from his sunny France the memory of a brighter sky and softer air than came as if on purpose to the festival. And with the brighter sparkle on the waters and the broad smile in all the heavens, everything bright and musical came out to make a holiday. There were the streets decorated with banners and lined with happy crowds; the long procession with the trades which create all the prosperity; with the school children gayer than all the gardens in their floral costumes and the radiance of their youth; the soldiers, the sons who had come back, the citizens, the military with sonorous martial blowing martial sounds; the chiefs of the Penobscots, shadows of the departed lords of the soil, the flaming matches and the evening illuminations. In all Democratic rest a congregation of thousands hung to the story of the early settlement of the Penobscot valley, and of the early history of the town, told with careful accuracy and admirable soundness and vigor by Judge Godfrey, and a poem collected and sparkling with a racy flavor of the Penobscot, it is written by a lady identified personally and ancestrally with the best life of the town, and read with singular force by her brother, the Rev. Dr. Adams of Brunswick, a Bangor boy, and the Congregational clergyman of longer settlement in the state, while a large choir sang with fine effect a centennial hymn quite surpassing in a compact and happy appropriateness the poetry common to such occasions, composed by one, whose girlhood passed close under your correspondent's eye.

The day closed with a dinner in Norombega Hall. The tables were laid for five hundred men and women, while the gallery was filled with a select company, and all were to merry as a marriage bell. Speeches were made by returned sons and former residents, by ex-Vice President Hamlin, Mr. Peters, M. C. Hon. John A. Poor, Hon. Phineas Barnes, of Portland, and the Rev. Mark Trafton, of Providence. The last named gentleman was born here, as was his mother before him, and as you can well understand, has a speech full of wit and rich in local traditions.

Jacob Buswell is no historic name like Roger Williams. Bangor was no asylum for diseased consciences like Providence. The Adams of this new settlement in the Penobscot woods came here to get a living, nothing more, and perhaps a little more and cheaper room to earn it in. Others came after him, farmers, millers, coopers, with the same purpose, and, on no more precocious basis. They came and passed away like all such generations. But out of it a city grew, fair and queenly on the forest hills. They builded better than they knew. And so history is made, not always, not often, out of romantic or splendid material, but of the common wants and desires of men, who go to some new spot to dig, to buy, to flax, and so in a century, out of such beginnings, spring such growths as this energetic city, outstripping, for itself as well as its own productive region, the wonderful greatness in the century to come. So by a Providential ordering these industries which packed men into the wilderness, pushing the borders of civilization ever outward, accomplish these great civil and social results. It is the result which makes the humble beginning new well worth remembering. And well and most worthily has it been remembered. The authorities and citizens of Bangor have done themselves great honor in this celebration of their birthday.
